AMUSEMENT NOTES

"Uncle Dan" at The Barre Opera House Tonight.

Romance, sensational melo-drama and pastoral comedy all mingled with that dear old New England atmosphere, which generally spells success and fascination when properly applied, is said to be represented in Uncle Dan's, which will be the attraction at the opera house today, matinee and night.

Exciting situations and climaxes are said to alternate with romance and rural comedy of the "Down East" type, in a play which appeals to the lovers of melo-drama, as well as those of comedy or romance. The play is Ed. Ward Lock's dramatized version of the novel of the same name and made famous by Mrs. Fiske, Mary Marble, Lizzie Evans and the late Barney McCauley and is still one of the known successes now on the road. The locale is, of course, in New England and among the scenes disclosed are Fair Paine farm, down in Maine and the North Terminal station in Boston. Special attention is said to have been given to the scenic production and electrical effects. Many high-class specialties are introduced. The company carry a fine band and orchestra, said to be the best on the road.

"Peck's Bad Boy."

This popular comedy will be at the Barre opera house Tuesday evening, November 3. The name, "Peck's Bad Boy," needs no introduction to our theatregoers, as this famous comedy has stood the test for 20 seasons or more and last year seemed to bring the play up to date, as there is always something new in the line of specialties and music, and the management has spared no expense this season in selecting a first-class company of players.

Was a Decided Hit.

Such a funny little man as Frank Deshon hasn't been seen in Barre for a last night were convulsed with laughter. "A Knight for a Day" at the opera house last night were convulsed with laughter whenever he appeared. In fact, the whole company was one of the best that ever presented musical comedy in Barre. This refers to looks, voice, make-up, and all, while there were in addition some very pretty scenes, notably the electrical "teetering act" at the close of the first act. The chorus was superb.

A fairly susceptible plot only runs through "A Knight for a Day," so-called enough to dignify by the name of plot. Deshon as "Jonathan Joy," an alleged lawyer, is fortunate enough to get possession of papers conveying the title to a great estate in Corsica, and his manipulation of these papers furnishes the main idea of the theme, with the heiress being sought, strangely enough, for herself, rather than for her property. Ellen Tate as "Muriel," the heiress, fitted into the part to perfection and her singing captivated the audience, until she was forced to respond again and again. Deshon was also repeatedly cheered. As for the comedy parts, there wasn't a laughless moment during the entire performance.

SECRET RATES TO STANDARD

Testimony at New York Oil Hearing

COMPANY FAVORED BY C. V.

No Independent Companies Had Such Low Prices—The Freight Rate Official of the Railway Is the Witness.

New York, Oct. 31.—An employee of the Central railroad of Vermont testified Thursday in the government's suit against the Standard Oil company that for many years the Standard got a lower freight rate in oil shipped over its road than independents. He added, however, that had the independents asked for the lower rate they could have had it. This official was George B. Ferguson, who at various times has occupied the post of land clerk, rate clerk and Mr. Ferguson, under cross-examination by Frank B. Kellogg, the government's lawyer, said that while independents were being charged the second and third-class freight rate from Burlington to several other New England points, the Standard received a lower rate. This was before the Interstate Commerce Commission began its duties. Mr. Kellogg showed the witness a letter written by the general freight agent of the Vermont Central to the local agent at Burlington, which said:

"In the future these shipments will be covered by a special rate advice."

The shipments, said Mr. Kellogg, referred to Standard Oil consignments of oil. There was another letter under date of 1903 which referred to a "special rate" order. This, too, was to the Burlington freight agent, William K. Green, and said: "You will paybill as follows on S. O. shipments to towns (giving the names of several towns) for $10 to $15 a car." This "special rate" was not filed with any commission, said Mr. Ferguson.

"Then to whom was it given?" asked Mr. Kellogg.

"To our auditor, the agent at Burlington, and the agents at the points of destination," said Mr. Ferguson.

"We didn't have any," said Mr. Ferguson. "We connected with the Rutland railroad at Rutland Point, and the Rutland connected with the New York Central at Burlington."

He said that the Central of Vermont had a $22 a car rate to Burlington over the Rutland road, and that the latter filed the rate with the Interstate Commerce Commission. Mr. Kellogg wanted Mr. Ferguson to produce correspondence relating to the rates given to the Standard.

"The general correspondence is destroyed every eighteen months, so I can't oblige you," said the witness. "All the files for 1903 have been destroyed. Some of the old rates to the Standard Oil company are still being charged," he said, "although oil is now being shipped as fifth-class freight, thus bringing down the freight charges so that the independents have the opportunity of shipping on a better basis than prior to 1903, when the Interstate Commerce Commission started in."

Mr. Kellogg wanted to know whether
